NEWS AND COMMENTS.

THE administration has taken a very firm stand towards Chili in view of that government's recent treatment of Minister EAGAN. It is as dangerous to tread on "Uncle Sam's" coat-tail (especially if the offender be of diminutive stature) as on that of an Irishman with his shillalah.

IF it were not so tough on the State of Ohio, and such a sacrifice of CAMPBELL, one of the most gallant leaders that ever marshaled the Democratic cohorts, one might almost wish that MCKINLEY would win in the present great contest for the Governorship of the "Buckeyes:"—for then he would be pretty sure of the Republican Presidential nomination in 1892; and, if so, "grand old party," stand from under!

AT a religious meeting out West the other day the revivalist selected one of the "female vanities," or, rather, an article of woman's apparel, for the Quixotic windmill of his crusade. He inveighed most violently against the corset; and, under the intense excitement of the hour, many of the women of the congregation then and there denuded themselves of the obnoxious article of dress, and they were consigned to a bonfire. This may be all right; but to us it looks like a bad type of dangerous fanaticism.

THE editor of the North Carolina Teacher declines to accept the spelling, "Newbern"—which the United States Postoffice Department has adopted as the designation of our beautiful North Carolina town enthroned at the confluence of the Neuse and Trent rivers—and still contends for "New Bern" as the proper form. To be logical, it appears to us that the Teacher might better be satisfied with "New Berne." The town was "named after" the ancient city Berne in Switzerland. Why elide the final "e?"

POOR fellow! JOHN RYAN, a policeman in New York, with an excellent record, was called upon by a conductor to remove from his street-car a drunken man and woman who were annoying the other passengers. RYAN, on approaching the car to make the arrest, found the woman to be his wife, in company with a dissolute libertine. The policeman performed his duty with Spartan sternness, and carried the degraded couple to the station-house. This done, his fortitude gave way in total physical and mental collapse, and he is now in Bellevue Hospital, insane.

TWO of CHARLES DICKENS'S most graphically-drawn characters are Chevy Slyme in "Martin Chuzzlewit," and Wilkins Micawber, in "David Copperfield"—the first always "waiting round the corner," and the last always "waiting for something to turn up." These decidedly interesting characters are represented over and over again in the American politics of the present day. What with the "statesmen out of a job," the statesmen who never had a job, and the statesmen who are ready for any sort of job—the patient "waiters" for the party toesin of 1892 are to be found "around every corner."

As germain to the fate of the English sparrow, of which we made mention in last issue—the legislature of Illinois having set every man's hand within its commonwealth against this hapless bird—it is noteworthy that better framing and enforcement of laws for the protection of the birds of the air, the beast of the fields and the fish of the streams, in the past history of our State—such attention as almost every thoughtful general Assembly feels to be its duty now—would have left the country at large far better off to-day. Of course with the increase of population all inferior animal creation retires the more rapidly before the dominion of man; but the history of old countries, far more densely settled than ours, proves that in this great expanse of territory there has been for the past hundred years a ruthless destruction and wasteful slaughter of all kinds of game.

THE Richmond Dispatch, commenting on the Massachusetts Democracy, says: "In a word, Massachusetts figures as a Democrat in State and national conventions, but not in presidential elections. When there is any work to be done—any election of President of the United States to take place—she always appears under the banner of the party which opposes the Democrats. In fact, it was in ante-bellum days a standing joke and reproach upon Massachusetts that her Democrats never allowed the Democratic party in that State to become so numerous that the Federal offices to be divided out in that State could not 'go around.'" The above is a solid chunk of cold, unvarnished fact. There doubtless are individual Democrats in the "Bay State" as true as the needle to the pole to the best principles of the party; but Massachusetts Democracy, taken as a native product, is as much like Jeffersonian Democracy as "chalk is like cheese."

THE suicide of Gen. BOULANGER at Brussels a few days ago shows the world the last act in the dramatic life of a remarkable but by no means admirable character. He had, through an eventful life, won no small fame as a soldier, but he was neither a patriot, a statesman nor a good citizen. His whole career was a mass of inconsistencies, throughout which he was a poseur and dealer in rodomontade. Gallant fighter as he proved himself to be, he failed in moral courage in every great crisis of his life: a professed republican of republicans—even to the extent of wishing to expel the Princes from France—he was unsparing in his praise of the DUC D'AUMALE; the champion of reform in government and purity of administration of public affairs, he was an embezzler of public money, and fled his country to escape punishment; he wrecked the happiness of the one to whom he had vowed his life in the infatuation for the woman upon whose grave he took his life;—and this infatuation seems to have been mutual, for she had devoted a large fortune to the service of this French outcast and exile.

THE VIRGINIA OF THE PAST.

Recollections of Chief Justice Marshall and Other Great Men of the "Old Dominion."

David Conrad Holmes in N. Y. Times.]

One of my most pleasant recollections of Mr. Marshall was about the time of the early summer of 1828, when I was on a visit to Richmond. Judge Carr (my father-in-law) was a member of the old Senior Quoit Club that met at Buchanan Spring, just across the road from his house, "Elba." Every member of this fraternity had the right to invite one guest, and he invited me at one of the fortnightly meetings that took place during my visit. I found but one other guest besides myself—Mr. Alston, of South Carolina. The club was composed of some of the old members, who were almost coeval with its existence, and of the sons of deceased members chiefly. There were the Judges of the Court of Appeals, old merchants, and among the rest the "Old Chief," as he was called, John Marshall.

He seemed to be the head man of the tribe. The dinner this day was delayed by his absence, old Jasper, the factotum, announcing that Mr. Marshall never missed, and would not set on the dinner till he did come. Richardson, mine host, was the caterer, and prepared the moderate beverages, chiefly ale or porter—no wine, but a mint-julep as a special favor. After a while the tall, spare form of the old Judge was seen coming up the lane. Everybody crowded around to get a shake of his hand. "How are you, Chief?" "Howd'ye, Judge?" "Glad to see you, Mr. Marshall; we had almost given you out."

"I can tell you, boys," said he to Edward Mayo, Blair and some of the younger ones, "I have rid thirty miles from my North Carolina courts to-day, to be with you, but I prefer to shake hands with that."

"That" was a tumbler of mint-julep which Richardson passed over the heads of the rest to the Judge, and which he held to his mouth "till the greens were dry."

After the plain, substantial dinner under the trees, or a bone in the open air, the business of the day began. The chief, long past three-score-and-ten, stripped off coat and waistcoat, and took up his quoits, the heaviest in the collection of brass rings. The mighty discus flew from his hand to the peg truer than from any other man among them. He beat the "boys," as well as his contemporaries. The impudent youngsters would sometimes dispute his pitch. Then the Judge, after appealing to every man's sight in his favor, would call for a measurement, get down on his knees, bite a blade of grass, and demonstrate his claim with all fairness and good humor.

I was standing on the edge of the pit—the long trench dug level for the exercise—with Mr. Alston, looking on. He seemed amazed as well as amused at the sages of the law, and especially at the boyish glee of their venerated chieftain. Said I: "Judge Marshall can beat them all. What strength he must still retain to hurl those quoits such a distance!" "Yes," said Alston, "but what astonishes me is the unaffected enjoyment of these eminent old fellows. I had heard of the simple, plain manners of you Virginians, but this is to me a novel and beautiful exemplication of them."

After the games were over I observed Judge Carr with his coat still on his arm, while the others had resumed theirs. There seemed to be some cause of amusement about the Chief Justice. He was striding about in a coat that would have gone twice around him. It was Carr's, who was a very stout man, while Marshall was very thin.

The Famous Death Valley.

Boston Herald.]

Mr. J. J. Gillivray, who has been for many years in the United States mineral survey service, and is just now East for a time, is stopping in Boston. Speaking of Death Valley, California, which he surveyed, he says: "It has been called a terra incognita, and a place where no human being could live," etc. Well it is bad, but, perhaps, not quite so bad as that. The great troubles are the scarcity of water and the intense heat. But many prospecting parties go there looking for veins of ore, and to take borax. The richest borax mines in the world are found there.

"The valley is about 75 miles long by 10 miles wide. The lowest point is near the centre, where it is about 150 feet below the level of the sea. Just 15 miles west of this central point is Telescope Peak, 11,000 feet above the sea, and fifteen miles east is Mt. Le Cont, in the Funeral Mountains, 8,000 feet high.

The valley runs almost due north and south, which is one reason for the extreme heat. The only stream of water in or near the valley flows in at the upper end, and forms a marsh in the end of the valley. This marsh gives out a horrible odor of sulphuretted hydrogen, the gas of which makes a rotten egg omnipotent.

"Where the waters of this stream come from is not very definitely known, but in my opinion it comes from Owen's Lake, beyond the Telescope Mountains to the west, flowing down into the valley by some subterranean passage. The same impurities found in the stream are also found in the Lake, where the water is so saturated with salt, boracic acid etc., that one can no more sink in it than in the water of the great Salt Lake, and I found it so saturated that, after swimming in it a little while, the skin all over my body was gnawed and made very sore by the acid. Another reason why I think the water of the stream enters the valley by some fixed subterranean source is the fact that, no matter what the season, the flow from the springs that feed the marsh is always exactly the same.

The heat here is intense. A man cannot an go hour without water without becoming insane. While we were surveying there we had the same wooden-cased thermometer that is used by the signal service. It was hung in the shade on the side of our shed, with the only stream in the country flowing directly under it, and it repeatedly registered 130 degrees, and for forty-eight hours in 1888, when I was surveyor there, the thermometer never went below 104 degrees.

No Cause for Regret.

An Irishman, who was shingling a barn, got too near the edge and rolled off and fell to the ground.

"Oi wuz coomin' down onyway," he reflected. "Oi wuz jist out o' nails."

JENNY LIND AND GRISI.

A Pretty Story Told of the Two Famous Songstresses.

Milwaukee Wisconsin.]

Somewhere in the 40's Grisi and Jenny Lind were singing in different theatres in London.

Those who went into ecstacies over Grisi's "Norma" were the next evening enraptured with Lind's "Casta Diva." Great was the rivalry between them.

Finally Queen Victoria, deeming it a shame that two such gifted women should be separated by a mean, unworthy jealousy, requested both to appear at a court concert. Of course, they both came.

The Queen warmly welcomed them together for the first time. She gave the signal for the concert to begin.

Jenny Lind was the younger, and it was arranged that she should sing first. With perfect confidence in her powers, she stepped forward to begin. Chancing to glance at Grisi, she saw the Southern woman's malignant gaze fixed on her.

The fierce look almost paralyzed her. Her courage left her, her voice trembled, everything grew black before her, and she almost fell. By the greatest exertion of her will, however, she managed to finish her aria.

A painful silence followed its conclusion—a silence that told of her failure. She caught a triumphant expression on Grisi's face.

Despite the confusion of her senses, she quickly realized that failure meant lost glory, disappointed hope, the destruction of happiness, grief and mortification to her family and her friends. Suddenly a soft voice that seemed to come from Heaven whispered to her: "Sing one of your old songs in your native language."

She caught at the thought like an inspiration. The accompanist was striking his final chords. She stepped up to him, asked him to rise, and took the vacant seat.

Softly her white fingers wandered over the keys in a loving prelude; then she sang. It was a little prayer which she had loved as a child; it belonged to her childhood's repertoire. She hadn't sung it for years. As she sang she was no longer in the presence of royalty, but singing to loving friends in her fatherland.

No one present understood a word of the "prayer." Softly the first plaintive notes floated on the air, swelling louder and richer every moment.

The singer seemed to throw her whole soul into that wierd, thrilling, plaintive "prayer." Gradually the song died away and ended in a soft sob. Again there was silence—the silence of admiring wonder.

The audience sat spellbound. Jenny Lind lifted at last her sweet blue eyes to look into the scornful face that had so disconcerted her at first. There was no fierce expression now; instead a teardrop glistened on the long black lashes.

After a moment, with the impulsiveness of a child of the tropics, Grisi crossed to Jenny Lind's side, placed her arm about her and kissed her warmly, utterly regardless of the admiring audience.

Some Thoughts on Pastoral Visiting.

Rev Jas. Duncan in Raleigh Christian Advocate.]

To some, pastoral visiting is a pleasure; to some, it is a burden; to nearly all, perhaps, it is looked upon as a duty which they would not regret to dispense with. Aside from the question of obligation, has not pastoral visiting, when rightly conceived, an aspect of positive attractiveness? May not even those who dislike it most heartily be brought to see it in such light that they shall really learn to delight in it? Pastoral visiting opens a door into a world that can never be entered in any other way. A world that is full of thinking, sentient, human beings. A world in which it is absolutely necessary for the man to move who desires to be fully in sympathy with his fellow-men, and whose highest ambition is to save souls. To the devout soul there is no human life that is commonplace. As soon as he recognizes that God has made a human being, and reflects on what that means, he at once recognizes that in that man there is a new phase of life which he has never seen, and which he can never see until he is filled with the Spirit of the God who made him. Now fill a pastor with the Holy Spirit, and let him start on his rounds, and let him feel as he stands at the door of the humblest cottage in his charge that he is about to come face to face with a being whom the great God has made for some wise purpose, a being who is a revelation of God, a book in which God's thought is contained concerning at least one human being, and let him feel that God has sent him there to read that book for himself, and by Divine Grace reveal its meaning to the one who possesses it, but who perhaps has never been able to read it aright. Is this not attractive? What is it that attracts us in a well-written book? Is it not the faithful portrayal of life? Now here is life itself.

No class of men have just this opportunity except pastors. They have the confidence of the people even before the people know them. It takes but little encouragement on the part of the pastor to make his people unfold their lives to him. They will tell him things that they will tell to no one else. I do not mean that the pastor is to endeavor to pry into the secrets of any family; but he can, without great difficulty, make the members of his charge show themselves to him without telling him their secrets. The majority of the human family long for sympathy, and if you can make a man feel that you sympathize with him it will take but a short while to get at his heart.

Pastoral visiting broadens a man. It makes the preacher larger. It develops in him at least one moral quality that cannot be developed any other way: sympathy for man, and this gives him power in the pulpit with men. It is not to be a substitute for work in the study; it is to supplement and fill out that work. The preacher who is a good pastor has much to gain; he has nothing to lose.

The Quakers Still Vigorous.

The Quakers are not dying out after all. A decline in their membership in Great Britain began before the end of the last century, and continued down to 1860, but since that date they have been steadily increasing. In 1881 there were 14,981 members and 5,041 "attenders" at meeting. Since that year there has been an increase of about a hundred or two every year, and the figures for 1890 were 15,836 members and 6,110 "attenders." They are strong in this State.

BILL ARP ON MUSIC.

The Georgia Philosopher Has Become Cultivated, but Still Has a Hankering for the Old Tunes.

Music is the only enjoyment that is innocent, refining, and that cannot be indulged in to excess. It stands by itself as the peculiar gift of God. It is the only art that is alike common to angels and men. It has a wonderful compass and variety, and yet from the grandest to the simplest it is all pleasing and innocent. Every other pleasure can be carried to dissipation, but not music.

The highest order of music is that which we never hear, but only read about and wonder. It is called the music of the spheres—the grand symphony that is made by the planets and other heavenly bodies coursing around the sun, and which Milton says is heard only by God and the angels. I don't suppose that such creatures as we are, afflicted and limited with original sin, could bear that kind of music. The child that is charmed with a lullaby, or soothed to sleep with "Hush, my dear; lie down and slumber," would be frightened at an oratorio from Handel. But musical taste is progressive, like every other good thing.

The time was when I thought "Billy in the Low-grounds" and "Bonaparte crossing the Rhine" perfectly splendid, but I don't now. I have advanced to a higher grade. By degrees the children have educated me, and as they climb up I climb a little, too. Time was when I thought "Kathleen Mavourneen" the sweetest song, and my wife, whom I was courting, the sweetest singer in the world. But I don't now—that is, I mean the song. There are sweeter songs; I don't wish to be misunderstood about the singer. No doubt her voice has the same alluring, ensnaring, angelic, elysian sweetness it had forty years ago, more or less, but the fault is in me, for when a man has once been allured and ensnared, and is getting old and deaf, he loses some of his gushing appreciation. Nevertheless, when her eldest daughter touches the ivory keys, and sings Longfellow's beautiful hymn of

"Daylight is done, and the darkness Falls from the wings of night," my appreciation seems to come back, and it makes me calm and serene.

There is nothing in all nature that so proves the goodness of God to His creatures as in giving to them the love of music and the faculty to make it. It is the cheapest and the most universal pleasure. Much of it costs nothing, for we hear it in the winds and waves, the trees, the waterfalls, and from the birds and insects. It is of many kinds, from the pealing anthem that swells the note of praise in Westminster Abbey down to the plantation harmonies of the old-time darkies around the corn-pile.

Mother of Warriors.

Courier-Journal.]

The death of Mrs. Henrietta H. Morgan, of Lexington, which occurred in that city on Monday, removes from life a woman who, while not having an eventful career as the world goes, nevertheless exercised a great influence in Kentucky history.

Mrs. Morgan was the daughter of Mr. John W. Hunt, of Lexington, who was one of Kentucky's most prosperous merchants, and the first man in the State to accumulate a fortune of a million dollars. Her children numbered six sons and two daughters. One of the daughters was the wife of General A. P. Hill, of Virginia, and the other married General Basil W. Duke, of this city. Her sons were General John H. Morgan, Calvin C., Richard C., Charles H., Thomas H. and Frank H. Morgan. All of them and her two sons-in-law entered the Confederate Army, and of the number her most famous son, General John H. Morgan, Tom Morgan and General Hill were killed in battle, or, rather, the great cavalry leader was shot down at Greenville, Tenn., after surrender. All the others were wounded at various times, and all were prisoners during the course of the war. Tom was but seventeen years old when he enlisted in the Second Kentucky Infantry, at Camp Boone. He was transferred from that regiment to the command of his brother, the General, and was but nineteen years old when he was killed. Frank, the youngest, was but fifteen when he enlisted. Cal, Dick and Charles were all officers, and there was not one who did not do his duty.

Mrs. Morgan was devoted to the Confederate cause, and the death of her sons and son-in law had a deep effect upon her, and affected her health. During the latter part of her life her chief pleasure was found in contemplating the portraits of her sons and General Hill, and the war relics in her possession, of which she had a large number.

Conversation Between a Man and a $5 Bill.

The Man—Now, what shall I do with you?

The Bill—Keep me. I'm pretty nearly worn out. Let me have a rest.

The Man—Not much. That's not what I got you for. I think I'll buy a new hat with you. How does that strike you?

The Bill—Don't. You don't need one.

The Man—Well, how about a couple of theatre tickets and a dozen roses?

The Bill—You would only be making a fool of yourself. She doesn't care a straw for you.

The Man—But I would enjoy it myself.

The Bill—Can't you enjoy keeping me?

The Man—Don't know—never tried it.

The Bill—Well, try it now.

The Man—I believe I will—that is, I'll keep part of you; most of you. I'll just take one drink, and——

The Bill—I'm doomed now.

Fireless Nations.

Boston Transcript.]

According to Pliny, fire was a long time unknown to some of the ancient Egyptian tribes, and when a celebrated astronomer made them acquainted with that element, and how to produce it, they were wild with delight. The Persians, Phœnicians, Greeks and several other nations acknowledge that their ancestors were once without the comforts which fire bestows; the Chinese confess the same of their progenitors. Pompanion, Mola, Plutarch and other ancient writers speak of nations which, at the time when they wrote, knew not the use of fire, or had just recently learned it. The inhabitants of the Mirian Islands, which were discovered in 1551, had no idea of fire or its uses. Their astonishment knew no bounds when they saw it applied to wood.

NOTICE.

Bank of Fayetteville vs. H. W. Steinhilper; J. M. Hagy and W. A. Levering, partners, under firm of Hagy & Co.; David Gibb.

CIVIL ACTION.

Order of Publication of Summons and Attachment to November Term, 1891, of Cumberland Superior Court, N. C.

It being made to appear to the satisfaction of the Court by affidavit, that a cause of action exists in favor of the plaintiff against the defendants J. M. Hagy and W. A Levering, partners, under firm of Hagy & Co., for the sum of $500 due by their acceptance of draft drawn on them, for value, in favor of plaintiff by defendant H. W. Steinhilper, in his own name and as Star Lumber Company, at 30 days after date, June 20th, 1891, duly presented for payment, not paid, and protested for non payment; and that the plaintiff is entitled to recover said sum over and above all counter-claims known to plaintiff; and that this court has jurisdiction of the subject of this action; that summons has been issued and served upon H. W. Steinhilper by the Sheriff of Cumberland County, N. C., who returns that J. M. Hagy and W. A. Levering are not to be found in this county; that the said Hagy and Levering are non residents of the State and cannot after due diligence be found in the State, but have property in this State and County, subject to Attachment, to-wit: lumber; and that an Attachment has been issued in this cause returnable on Monday, of November Term next, of this Court, being the 16th of November, 1891, and has been levied on said property in the possession of defendant David Gibb, agent of his co-defendants, at Manchester, in this county; and that the non-resident defendants, J. M. Hagy and W. A. Levering have, or claim to have an interest in said property.

On motion of plaintiff, it is ordered by the Court, that the service be made by publication in the FAYETTEVILLE OBSERVER, once a week for six weeks, for J. M. Hagy and W. A. Levering to appear and answer or demur to the complaint in this cause, at the Court-House in Fayetteville, N. C., at November Term next, commencing the 16th of November, 1891.

Done at office in Fayetteville, N. C. this 8th day of September, 1891.

MORE "HANDWRITING ON THE WALL."

The National Liberal Federation of England has enthusiastically adopted a resolution declaring for the doing away with the House of Lords of the British Parliament; and, in touch with this radical utterance of the great Liberal Congress, Gladstone has made a speech, expressing his willingness to see the law of entail swept away, and the hereditary nobility of England become a thing of the past.

Loving republican institutions from a thoughtful appreciation of the inestimable benefits they confer upon the nations of the earth wherever enjoyed, we must nevertheless study long before we cry "good!" to the ruthless tearing down of this great component part of the fabric of English political and social life. The hereditary nobility of England is an aristocracy of not only blood but brains, and valor, and virtue. It has given to its country hosts of grand men and galaxies of noble women; it has peopled its cabinets of state with giants, and its fields of battle with heroes; it has aided to raise its military glory so high toward the zenith that, from all the amphitheatre of the world's horizon, the assembled nations of the earth may look up to do it homage; it has helped to maintain its maritime supremacy, until there is no sea where the "union jack" floats not, no shore where it is not honored—and, in all the crises of that country's history, its hereditary nobility has ever been the staunchest supporter of church and state.

But there are others "in the purple" who do not merit such sympathy or evoke such admiration as the patrician order which holds Albion's lands and wears its proudest honors. All over Europe there are "Neros fiddling while Rome is burning," recking not of the inexorable trend of events which shall show them:—

"A barren sceptre in their grasp,
Thence to be wrested by unlineal hands,
No sons of theirs succeeding."

Despotisms are propped up by huge military establishments, borne on the shoulders of the oppressed as Sinbad carried the "Old Man of the Sea;" the Continent is one vast military camp, with its chains of fortifications as long as its lines of railways; Russia has made of its immense territory one great bivouac, ransacking the arsenals of the world to increase its armament, while the peasantry sit by the roadside, begging for bread—and to-day the Czar is deploying and drilling a quarter of a million men on the frontier, behind which it is said that starvation has transformed the father into a monster who devours his children.

All this to "strike a blow for freedom, to repel invasion, to preserve the autonomy of government? Not so. To heighten the splendor of the throne, to strengthen empire, to gratify ambition. Will it last forever? The time is coming when the burning wrath of outraged humanity, at last aroused, will scatter these serried ranks, and sweep away entrenchment and fort, more utterly than shot or shell; when radicalism, risen to the height of justice, will proclaim that mankind can do without principalities, petty princes and the tinsel of the crown.

LET IT BE AN EXAMPLE.

The people of Moore county are to be congratulated upon having recently offered an example for the emulation of all North Carolina. Their Superior Court took in charge a man indicted for a capital felony. The machinery of the law was put in motion, with the State's prosecutor guarding the interests of the commonwealth, and able counsel defending the rights of the accused; and, after a fair trial, Ben Bostic was found guilty of the murder of young Currie, received his sentence, and in due course paid the penalty of his crime.

Here was a case in which a patient and rigorous judicial investigation discovered the commission of a brutal murder, with no extenuating circumstances to palliate the deed, and no reasonable doubt as to the perpetrator. Under the law this man deserved death, and the law's demands would not be satisfied or its conditions fulfilled until the sentence of the court was consummated. He expiated his life for the life he had taken.

This was an administration of justice prompt without indecent haste; severe without cruelty—and more of it would have a more powerful effect upon men who take the punishment of malefactors into their own hands than any other influence that could be exerted. The "law's delays," the quibbling of counsel, the useless appeals, the legal exceptions, the interposition of extraneous obstacles to the execution of the jury's verdict:—all this conjures up mob violence and masked men with pistol and rope.

Now let us take one step higher; and, if there be truth in the recent reproach that it is as hard to hang a white man in North Carolina as it is for a "camel to go through the eye of a needle," let our future court records blot it out. Let Justice poise her scales for the transgressions of all classes and colors, and with equal sternness vindicate her majesty from the rich man's crime, which convulses society, and the vagrant's misdemeanor, which despoils a smoke-house.

"In the corrupted currents of this world
Offense's gilded hand may shove by justice,
And oft 'tis seen the wicked prize
Itself buys out the law."

ISSUES OF THE DAY.

We doff our hats in respectful congratulation, as former dutiful subjects, to ex-President and Mrs. Grover Cleveland upon the happy event which has just taken place in their family. It is in the woof of fate that the infantile sceptre at the White House will be wrested from the chubby hand of Baby McKee by a little Cleveland. "The king is dead! Long live the queen!"

Sam Jones and Sam Small were recently cited before the grand jury at Rome, Ga. In the course of their late revival meeting in that city they made the gravest and most injurious charges against prominent citizens, and the presiding judge thought that men who knew so much by all means ought to have an opportunity of lodging their information at official headquarters. Sam Jones is bad enough, in all conscience—even when engaged in a work which is good in itself—but as long as he keeps company with Sam Small he will be in trouble, and a heap of it.

President Chadwick's report of the Atlantic & North Carolina R. R., read at the annual meeting, made a splendid showing. The earnings have increased 28 per cent. over the last report a year ago, and operating expenses have been lessened. Also there has been made permanent improvement to the road—two new engines, a parlor car, etc.—amounting to $23,505.88—New Berne Journal.

This and similar reports are gratifying, unmistakable evidences of material progress throughout the State. Time was—and not very far back in the past—when such a report from the Atlantic & North Carolina R. R., or, indeed, any railroad in North Carolina would have been impossible. They were poorly-equipped, with wretched road-beds, always pressed to death for means—struggling for existence. Their present satisfactory condition mirrors the general prosperity, for only flourishing mercantile and industrial enterprises could throw such a volume of business into their hands.

CAPE FEAR & YADKIN VALLEY RAILWAY.

Stockholders' Meeting—Officers' Reports—A Very Satisfactory Business Showing.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway Company took place in this city on Thursday last, 1st inst.; and to Mr. John M. Rose, the Secretary of the Company—who has been at his post in this capacity, serving with unwearied zeal and undiminished efficiency, almost since the inception of the road—we are indebted for a report of the proceedings of the meeting.

Maj. Jno. W. Scott, of Moore county, was chosen chairman, with Mr. Rose acting as secretary.

A committee on proxies reported the whole number of shares to be 19,555½, of which 16,093½ were present in person, and 425½ by proxy—constituting a large majority of the stock of the company—whereupon the chairman declared the meeting legally constituted for the transaction of business.

The report of the President was read and accepted; the reports of the other officers having been presented and furnished to the stockholders, their reading was dispensed with. All the reports, together with the proceedings of the meeting, were ordered to be printed.

The branch road, constructed to the furnace of the North Carolina Iron and Steel Company, near Greensboro, and known as the "Furnace Branch," was recognized as a branch of the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway, and the President and Directors were authorized to make payment for the same according to the contract for the construction thereof.

A resolution was passed modifying a resolution passed at the stockholders' meeting in October, 1890—wherein it was provided that the North State Improvement Co. furnish the said Railway Co. with certain equipments—so as to meet the views of each company.

The secretary was authorized to cast the vote of the stockholders for Directors, resulting in the election of the following board: Col. K. M. Murchison, New York; Chas. P. Stokes, Richmond, Va.; J. E. Gilmer, Winston; W. A. Moore, Mt. Airy; Dr. W. A. Lash, Walnut Cove; J. T. Morehead, Leaksville; R. P. Gray, Dr. D. W. C. Benbow, Greensboro; G. W. Williams, Wilmington; R. T. Gray, Raleigh; Jno. D. Williams, E. J. Lilly, Fayetteville. This is a reelection of the old board, except in the case of R. P. Gray, in place of his father, the late Julius A. Gray, and of J. E. Gilmer, in place of Dr. J. M. Worth, who declined a reelection.

At a subsequent meeting of the board of directors the President, Dr. W. A. Lash, was reelected, as were all the other officers of the company.

Commissioners' Court.

The board of county commissioners held the monthly meeting on Monday last—present: W. S Cook, W. J. Buie, G. W. Graham, D. B. Gillis. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

It was ordered that Alex. Simpson be dropped from the poor-list.

The order made at the September meeting to the supervisors of Carver's Creek township, in relation to the public road from McBryde's to the river road near Darden's, was rescinded.

The matter of building a house of worship at the poor house was referred to Messrs. D. B. Gillis and G. W. Graham for further investigation.

It was ordered that Z. B. Newton be relieved of poll-tax in Cross Creek township for 1890 on account of error.

G. W. Graham was appointed constable of Rockfish township, to fill the unexpired term of D. J. Smith, resigned.

A petition of citizens of Carver's Creek township, to make the bridge over Little River at McBryde & Hodges's mill a public bridge, was deferred til next meeting.

The petition of the Fayetteville Street Railway Company for permission to use the public road leading from the end of Hay Street to the Brick Store on Haymount for laying their track, and running their cars over the same, was continued—to be heard at a special meeting of the board, to be held on Monday, October 12, at 10 o'clock, A M.

After auditing sundry bills, the board adjourned.

"The Meeting of the Waters."

It is flood-tide twice in the twenty-four hours at the convergence of the tracks and sidings of the domain of the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway on "Military Green." The first comes on from 9 to 11 A. M. in the realm of Mr. G. W. Lake, and surges about the immense freight depot, where he and his assistant clerical and warehouse force find emphatically that "time is money." Unladen cars are shunted off, full cars are whirled to the platforms, drays are crowding about the doors, the huge building's interior, with its immense stores of goods, resembles a beehive, and the telephone is in full blast with the run of messages to and from business houses "down town."

Full-tide comes in again at 2:40 P. M.; rushes in more rapidly, and recedes with equal celerity, and is confined to the tracks running along the beautiful new passenger station. From 2:40 to 2:45 P. M. trains from Charleston, Bennettsville, Wilmington, Greensboro and Mt. Airy arrive, and between 3:10 and 3:12 P. M. trains depart for the same points.

One can imagine the hurry and bustle crowded into that short interval—the egress of passengers from the different trains, the groups on the platform awaiting friends, the hurrying up of those about to make a journey, the shifting of baggage, the delivery of mails and express, the clattering of hacks, omnibus and carriages, etc., etc. Then all the stir, and noise, and jostling of hurrying people melt away; and by 5 P. M. the long platform of the depot is as quiet and unpeopled as the great stretch of piazza of a summer-resort hotel in winter-time.

It is gratifying to say that through all this, from the highest official to the lowest, one sees nothing but courtesy and attention to the comfort and safety of passengers, and that the city marshal or his assistant is always at his post.

Jurors.

The following good men and true were drawn at the last meeting of the county commissioners to serve as jurors at November term of Superior Court:

WINSTON LETTER.

Graded School—The Twin City Booming—Tobacco! Tobacco!—Base-Ball, &c.

The graded school building here is the finest in the State; Prof. Alderman closed his institute here to-day by a "grand rally" or people's day.

Hon. F. M. Simmons and myself being specially invited, attended the exercises and listened with pleasure to an address of an hour's duration by the gifted Prof. Alderman.

The crowd was not a "crushing" one, because the people did not have time. When money is wanted for schools or any public enterprise they simply ask how much and pay, and go back to their work. That is Winston's way.

The Reynold's new factory is a mammoth concern, and is now nearing completion. It will be seven stories high, and not an inch of floor that will not be utilized.

Three hundred houses could now be filled if they were here. Every laborer, artisan or mechanic has more than he can do, and the demand is for more laborers.

The growth of Winston is solid, ever-increasing and permanent. Many friends have written me, asking my opinion about Winston. I cannot find time to answer all the letters without neglect of the duties which I have undertaken; but I say to all, if you desire to remove from the best place on the globe—if you will leave Fayetteville, that blessed spot of God's creation, then come and see Winston for yourself.

Tobacco is beginning to come in. Some "breaks" have already been made, but about the 20th of October the air will be full of music—tobacco music—made by the auctioneers who "say something," but which it would be foolish for me to try to understand. If Charlie Glover was here I think he would go off into a "nunnery" unless he could "march to the music of the procession." It is neither a Dutch language, French, Italian or English, but a horrible conglomeration of all combined.

Don't dare to ask the auctioneer "what he said;" he'll slap you over and sell $10,000 worth of tobacco while you are "picking yourself up."

I see you have the Fayetteville & Albemarle Railroad proposition for acceptance at the ballot-box. Carry it, gentlemen. What is $20,000 to Cross Creek or $10,000 to Seventy-First in comparison with the immeasurable benefits to be obtained? Carry the election.

The "test" game of base-ball was played here yesterday between the Richmond and the Winston teams, for the championship of the South. Winston won, of course. The man named "Eli," in modern nomenclature, is from Winston, and he generally "gets there."

In the meantime, send me the OBSERVER.

SHORT STOP.

A Pointer

that would guide, unerringly, into the haven of health, all that are on the troubled sea of impaired womanhood! It is nothing less, nor could be nothing more, than Dr Pierce's Favorite Prescription—frail female's faultless friend—time-tried and thoroughly tested. Internal inflammations, irregularities, displacements and all ill-conditions peculiar to women, controlled, corrected and cured, without publicity, by this safe, sterling specific. Purely vegetable. Only good can come from its use. The only remedy of the kind guaranteed to give satisfaction or money refunded.

"Despise not the day of small things," as the tiny pill (taken from a vial of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets) said to the 300-pound man, suffering from indigestion. As a gentle, thorough laxative, these Pellets resemble Nature more closely in their action than anything before discovered. Business and professional men, whose habits are sedentary, need something of this kind to ward off sick headache, biliousness and dyspepsia, but which will not strain and rack the digestive organs as did the old-fashioned pills. 25 cents per vial, at all druggists'.

A BOON TO THE SICK.

Dr. King's Royal Germetuer is endorsed by Rev. J. B. Hawthorne, pastor First Baptist Church, Atlanta, Ga., who says: "It is a great remedy." Rev. Sam P. Jones says: "I wish every poor suffering wife had access to that medicine." Thousands of others attest its virtues. Fifty gallons are drunk in Atlanta daily, where it is performing remarkable cures. It removes the cause of disease and builds up from the first dose. Send stamp for full particulars, certificates of wonderful cures, etc., to King's Royal Germetuer Co., Atlanta, Ga. IT CURES WHEN ALL ELSE FAILS. Price, $1.50 per concentrated bottle, which makes one gallon of medicine as per directions accompanying each bottle. Can be sent by express C. O. D. if your druggist cannot supply you.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

A Little Girl's Experience in a Lighthouse.

Mr. and Mrs. Loren Trescott are keepers of the Government Lighthouse at Sand Beach, Mich., and are blessed with a daughter, four years old. Last April she was taken down with Measles, followed with a dreadful Cough and turning into a fever. Doctors at home and at Detroit treated her, but in vain; she grew worse rapidly, until she was a mere "handful of bones." Then she tried Dr. King's New Discovery, and after the use of two and a half bottles was completely cured. They say Dr. King's New Discovery is worth its weight in gold, yet you may get a trial bottle free a B. E. Sedberry & Son's Drug Store.

The First Step.

Perhaps you are run down, can't eat, can't sleep, can't think, can't do anything to your satisfaction, and you wonder what ails you. You should heed the warning; you are taking the first step into Nervous Prostration. You need a Nerve Tonic, and in Electric Bitters you will find the exact remedy for restoring your nervous system to its normal, healthy condition. Surprising results follow the use of this great Nerve Tonic and Alterative. Your appetite returns, good digestion is restored, and the Liver and Kidneys resume healthy action. Try a bottle. Price 50c. at B. E. Sedberry & Son's Drug Store.

Two Grand Balloon Ascensions.

State Chronicle]

Yesterday morning at eleven Prof. Dennis gave the word "Let go, all!" to those holding the stay-ropes, and while the band played loudly, the balloon swept into cloudland, the Professor sitting serenely on the horizontal bar. Up, up, up he went until he seemed a mere speck, and the big balloon looked like a foot-ball. High up in the heavens a heavy wind was encountered, and it seemed as if the balloon would blow over and spill the Professor, but he pulled the string, the parachute separated from the big globe, and for a moment it shot down like an arrow, then opened like a big white umbrella, and the professor lightly descended to the earth. A CHRONICLE reporter was the first man to greet him when he struck solid soil. He was asked what he thought of the country he saw. He said he saw no country but his balloon until he came down. It was proposed that the congregation sing the old hymn, "And are we yet alive, and see each others face?" but the suggestion was not accepted. The band played, and the professor subsided into his tent amid the cheers of the crowd.

In the afternoon the female aeronaut made a paticularly fine ascent, rising to a height of several thousand feet. The wind was light. The parachute was easily detached, and its descent was very graceful. The landing was made in a pine grove just in rear of the Agricultural and Mechanical College. Many persons in the city and all this section saw the balloon. No finer ascension could be made.

Northern Settlers' Convention.

There is to be held, at the city of Raleigh, on Wednesday, Oct. 21, a convention of the northern, eastern and western settlers, in the State of North Carolina, together with all others who have immigrated to the South. It is very desirable these settlers shall be united in their purpose of promoting the progress and development of the country. To this end a preliminary convention was held in May to appoint a time for a convention in the fall. All northern men who have settled in North Carolina or any other Southern State are cordially invited to be present at this meeting.

A report has gone out that the northern settlers' convention is to convene on October 5th. It has been necessary to change the date in order to accommodate as large a number as possible. Many settlers can't attend on an earlier day, because of the harvesting of crops.

The time for the convention is therefore changed from the 5th to the 21st of October, 1891, and will take place in the Exposition building.

All who desire to attend will learn particulars by addressing communications to W. H. Chamberlain, assistant Secretary, Northern Settlers' Association, Raleigh, N. C.

A Dreadful Explosion.

Sanford Express.]

At Mr. G. W. Barnes's saw-mill, near Sanford, last Thursday morning, a keg of powder exploded, and dreadfully burned three white men and one negro. Some one had placed a keg of powder in the blacksmith-shop. In all probability the keg of powder was unstopped, and in welding a wagon-tire a spark flew into it. The keg was ripped open, and threw burning powder all over them. G. W. Rains, the proprietor, was nearest, and John Kimbell was next. They received the worst of it. Burnice Brown was badly burned, and so was John Davis, colored, but neither of the two latter seriously. Rains rushed out and ran to a tank of water, and plunged into it, after which he was pulled out by his workmen. Kimbell was not seen until he had torn nearly all his clothing off. He died, after some hours of agony.

The Colored Exhibition.

RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 3.—Official notice is given today that the colored department of the exposition opens on the 14th instant, and on that day there will be a military, civic and trade parade in which all employments, in which negroes figure will be illustrated. James H. James, of Raleigh, who was a body servant of President Davis, will be chief marshal. Large numbers of negroes are expected from the Southern States. Letters from various States and the District of Columbia say that great interest is taken, that the exhibits will be remarkable and that the people will come.

Over $50,000 Per Month.

Durham Recorder.]

Some idea of the amount of internal revenue, collected at the Durham office, may be obtained when we state the amount for this month footed up $58,005.76. Last month the amount was over $50,000. So in two months the government has received here over $110,000, and so it goes. If there was ever a town that deserved some recognition from the government in the way of a public building, that town is Durham. Now, why was not the bill put through?

An Impromptu Duel.

SHELBY, N. C., Oct. 3.—About 6 o'clock this afternoon D. Augustus Beam, a merchant, attempted to kill Dr. John McBrayer, United States Commissioner, by shooting him with a pistol. Dr. McBrayer was not hit, jumping out of the way of the bullet as Mr. Beam fired. The parties are brothers-in-law, but have been at odds for some time. The affair is said to have grown out of some derogatory remarks made by McBrayer. Directly after the shot Beam was arrested by Sheriff Hammond and bound over to court.

Cotton Futures.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—The Sun's cotton circular says:

Futures opened buoyant, lost part of the daily improvement, and closed quiet and steady at 5 to 6 points advanced from Saturday. The market to-day brought home to the bears the danger to which they are constantly exposed. Not from what can be foreseen and provided for, but from the "unexpected that happens." Liverpool reported a decided advance, most of which was sustained to the close. "Why is this thus?" was the natural inquiry. "Frost accounts! frost accounts!" re-echoed the querist, as he mopped his perspiring brow. "Whence do they come?" It was explained that it has been wintry cold in the Northwest, and the lower temperature was creeping down upon the northern portion of the cotton region, and threatened to bring frost to-night. The experience of two years ago shows that it is not always entirely safe to pooh-pooh frost accounts early in October. Yet no great alarm was felt after the situation had been thoroughly examined, and soon after second call prices began to weaken, decline being accelerated by an excessive crop movement. Receipts at Memphis over 7,000 bales, against less than 3,000 last year, were a great puzzle on the floor. Spot cotton was 1-16 of a cent dearer.

Eleven Negroes to be Hanged in South Carolina.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Sept. 25.—The most death-dealing sentence in the legal annals of this State, except in cases of insurrection, was passed at Laurens to-day, ten negro men being sentenced to be hanged for the murder of another negro. The charge was conspiracy and murder. Some months ago Jim Young, Monroe Young, Anderson Young, Allen Young, John Atkinson, Lige Atkinson, John Adams, Perry Adams and Jack Williams, all colored, having some cause of quarrel against Thornton Lance, also colored, arranged a plan to take his life and carried it out successfully. At this term of Laurens court they were all convicted. A motion was made for a new trial, but it was refused, and Judge Hudson sentenced the whole ten to be hanged on October 23rd. At the same term of court Ike Kinard, colored, was convicted of the murder of Lemuel G. Oxner, a white man, and was sentenced to be hanged October 16th, thus making eleven negroes sentenced to death at Laurens.

Gov. Holt's Address.

Greensboro Workman.]

The Richmond Times of to-day is very pronounced in its laudation of the address of Gov. Thos. Holt, at the opening of the Exposition, as the following editorial notice will show:

The address which was delivered by Governor Holt at the opening of the Exposition, on Thursday was as admirable in expression as it was instructive and significant in the facts which it presented. Rarely has there been given in the same space a more exhaustive statement of the material achievements of the Southern people since the war. A brief resume of its most striking features will be both timely and interesting.

"The story of the reparation of Southern disaster," Governor Holt remarked, "the increase of values, development of unknown wealth, and the advancement in every element of strength and power within a few years, are so extraordinary as to be unknown to the mass of even our own population."

Indian Massacres in Mexico.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Oct. 6.—John H. Parton, an American, who for the past two years has peen engaged in the mining business near Metztilar, in the State of Hidalgo, Mexico, arrived here yesterday. He brings information of a bloody Indian outbreak, which has been in progress in the district of Tulamengo, in that State. The trouble is the outgrowth of a dispute between several colonies of Spaniards and Germans and Indians, the new settlers attempting to settle on the lands of the natives. The Indians resisted the attempts to evict them, and much bloodshed has resulted. Parton says that a few days before his departure a settlement of whites was attacked by Indians, and nearly two hundred people massacred, including men, women and children. The colonists have appealed to the government for protection, and several battalions of troops are on their way to the scene of the trouble.

An Army of Northerners to Invade the South.

Seymour (Conn.) Record.]

The invitation of the Southern people extended to the citizens of this section to visit them during their great Industrial Exposition, Oct. 1st to Dec. 1st, 1891, at Raleigh, N. C., will be accepted. Thousands of Northern people will be present. There are being formed parties of three, four, six and as large as twenty-five, in different sections, and they will in this way have company on the journey, stop at the same hotels in Raleigh, and together enjoy the sights of the South. A party will most likely go from this vicinity sometime during October or November, and it will certainly make a very pleasant trip, with a chance to learn from personal observation of a section of the country of which Northern people read much and— by reason of the influence it has exerted and still exerts in the nation—are intensely interested in.

Manufactories in the State.

Wilmington Star.]

The figures as compiled from the State Commissioner of Agriculture, and published in the Bulletin, show 134 cotton and wollen mills, and 550 miscellaneous mills, factories, etc. In the former the leading counties are Alamance, with 17; Gaston, 16; Randolph, 14; Mecklenburg, 9, and Richmond, 8. In the latter Forsyth leads, with 41; Wake, 36; Guilford, 33; Buncombe, 21; Cumberland, 16; Pasquotank, 15; Davidson and Durham, with 14 each. But a number of other counties make very good showings. This gives an aggregate of 684 manufacturing establishments, which is not bad for a State which does no more horn-blowing than North Carolina. It may be remarked, too, that some of these are immense concerns.

Two Accidents.

BEAVER DAM, N. C., Oct. 5.—Joe Hamilton (colored) was trying to unload a cartridge Sunday morning with a hammer, when it exploded, putting several small shot in his right side. The wound is not serious.

John White, a white laborer, at Morst & Lee's cotton-gin, like many other careless ones, got his arm badly cut—no bones broken, except two fingers—Saturday afternoon. So it goes—another poor man is dependent on a weakly woman for support.

☞ Penning's air-ship, at St. Louis, which was under tent at the fair grounds, in readiness for trial when athletic sports would be in progress, was caught up by a storm and blown away.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

NOTICE.

I WISH TO CALL THE ATTENTION OF the people of this section to the fact that my mammoth Gin House will soon be completed, and will be equipped with the best 60-saw gin made; also feeder and condenser. The house is beautifully located on my farm, one-fourth of a mile north of Lee's Cross Roads—almost direct between here and Dunn, a fine cotton market. I will be able to gin your cotton in a few weeks, and you can take it on to town, and I will pay market price for your seed. I very kindly ask the people to give me their first bale, and should they not be satisfied I ask no more. I will gin for the 25th, and give your cotton every care in my power. My house will be well arranged for caring for several bales at once. Satisfaction guaranteed. I am yours very truly,

THE OBSERVER.

THURSDAY,.....OCTOBER 8 1891

TOWN AND COUNTY.

☞ For other local matter see 2nd page.

Our Thanks.

Our friend, Mr. James Thames, of Gray's Creek, has our acknowledgments for two baskets of delicious grapes, sent to the office the other day—the Thomas and the scuppernong. We consider the Thomas a fine variety.

A Sad Death.

Intelligence was received here last Friday of the death of Mrs. Elliott Daingerfield, of New York, who at the time was visiting her brother, Mr. French, in Wilmington. She was a charming and accomplished woman, with many friends in Fayetteville, where her bereaved husband (who must accept our cordial sympathies) passed his childhood and youth.

Not That Kind of Man.

Mr. Kelly Sessoms authorizes us to say that the report that he opposes the Fayetteville & Albemarle R. R. has no foundation in fact; he is a friend of this and all other railroads which inure to the welfare of the people.

Of course. One of our most esteemed and substantial citizens, Mr. Sessoms may be "counted in" in the march of progress.

That's Good.

An extensively-traveled Northerner, on his way to Charleston, S. C., made our office a pleasant call on Monday last; and, in the course of conversation, he remarked that, with the exception of the Hygeia at Old Point, the Hotel LaFayette was the best house he had "struck" since leaving New York, both as to the excellence of the rooms and the table service and fare. We believe that we have quoted almost his exact words.

Death of E. S. Green.

We deeply sympathize with Senator Green, of Harnett, in the loss of his son Mr. E. S. Green, aged about 18 years, which sad event occurred at Trinity College Tuesday evening, of typhoid fever. The remains were escorted to Jonesboro yesterday by the following pall-bearers from Trinity College, fellow-students and associates of the deceased: T. C. Daniels, D. N. Caveness, W. C. Merritt, R. E Young, R. L. Davis, S. B. Pierce.

List of Letters.

Following is the list of unclaimed letters remaining in the Fayetteville postoffice October, 5th, 1891:

Warren Beeby, Sarah Burns, Martha Campbell, Sarah A. Carver, Caroline Davis, Mary Edwards (2), Charley Glass, Lannina Green, E. F. Goodwin, Nathan Johnson, William Leith, Burkhead Mann, Haywood Massie, Lina Mathes, Isiah Moore (col.), Henry McCoy, Burton McArthur, Sarah Parker, Ashley Peoples, L. Walker, Julius A. Wilson, Mrs. Sallie White.

Persons calling for above letters will say advertised. D. F. WEMYSS, P. M.

Prompt Settlement.

Mr. H. I. McDuffie, Collecting Agent for the Life Insurance Company of Virginia, received a check on Monday last in payment of the insurance due on the life of L. C. Straughn, Esq., who died on the 29th ult., only six days elapsing after the death of the insured before his widow had the money. Such promptness is commendable. Mr. Straughn was insured in the Industrial (or Funeral Benefit) Department of said Company, paying a weekly premium of 15 cents, and the amount received was amply sufficient to pay all funeral expenses and leave a balance for the benefit of the widow. Every man should carry such a policy.

Artistic Work.

"Can storied urn or animated bust
Back to its mansion call the fleeting breath?
Can honor's voice provoke the silent dust,
Or flattery soothe the dull cold ear of death?"

Alas! No cunning chisel, no graver's art, no raised entablature, no marble plinth, can "ope the porches of the ear" once sealed by death! 'Tis the mourner who crowns with things of beauty the sod that hides the things so dearly loved.

In our beautiful cemeteries one pauses here and there to admire many handsome pieces of work—monuments, tablets and shafts—erected within the past year or two by Mr. E. L. Remsburg, who, after ably superintending the business here for a long time, has entered into partnership with Mr. Goodwin. In every order that he fills Mr. Remsburg evinces taste, skill and fidelity to design, and we are glad to know that all this is being rewarded by increasing patronage.

Hon. B. F. Grady.

A heavy rain on Thursday evening last prevented an audience from assembling at Williams Hall, and our people were disappointed in not hearing Hon. B. F. Grady, whose speech was deferred to a later occasion. It was desired that he make his address on the following night, but he was obliged to leave on Friday morning.

Mr. H. L. Cook, Chairman of the Democratic County Executive Committee, requests us to state that he strenuously urged Mr. Grady to remain over till Friday night, when, with better weather, a large crowd would gather to hear him.

We regret that all his Cumberland and Fayetteville constituents did not have an opportunity on this occasion of listening to their Representative-elect, who is to be one of the ablest and most faithful they have ever sent to Congress. Mr. Grady is a Democrat who "hews to the line," is well-equipped on all the vital political issues, and is besides a man of varied scholarly attainments, emphasizing his arguments on the stump with the fruits of much reading and study.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Conforming to an established rule, we mail with this issue a statement of the indebtedness of each and all our delinquent subscribers for subscription to the OBSERVER. To those in arrears the amount is small, and at a glance may seem insignificant, but to us it amounts to a great deal, and especially so when viewed in the light that our entire income is thus derived. "Procrastination is the thief of time," and we must therefore insist that the statement herewith sent be not "pigeon-holed" or lost sight of, but be given your individual and personal attention. Indulgence on account of hard times has resulted in the accumulation of hundreds of dollars on our books, all of which we find ourselves in need of and which we must have.

An Impecunious Cannibal.

The coffee-colored gentleman—who the other day took Fayetteville on his way in the course of an extensive lecturing tour, and who was chiefly distinguishable from a pair of dirty leggings and a Turkish flag draped gracefully about his person—came to grief before his departure from town.

His conspicuous claim to the admiration of this people was the fact that he came of one of the "first families" of cannibals "befo' de waw," and was as well-versed in the superior merits of the average missionary, in a culinary point of view, as the late lamented Kalaukaua or any other princely Hawaiian. This made the fat, chubby little boys about town follow him at a distance in horror-struck awe, while the lean and scrawny urchins danced all about him in defiant glee.

Whether or not, from the peculiar complexion and build of our citizens, he distrusted them as a gastronomic product, we can't say: at any rate, he had "his name put in the pot" at Webb's Hotel on West Hay street, reserving his cannibalistic proclivities for a more inviting field. But, as he had never had a bill presented to him for missionary, he was somewhat taken aback when the landlord poked the score under his nose; and, in all the silken folds of the banner of the Sublime Porte, not a shekel was to be found to pay for the victuals. He needed jailing; but, as his tactics didn't come within the purview of embezzlement, conspiracy, breach of trust or obtaining goods under false pretense, he went on his way rejoicing.

Loth to Part with Him.

Rev. Jno. M. Rose acquired a deep hold on the affections of his congregation in Greenville, S. C., and attained a high position in that city for his pulpit and ministerial abilities—and there come after him no uncertain signs of the general regret at his departure. The Greenville News has the following:

During Mr. Rose's pastorate here 171 accessions were made to the church—a net increase of 117, or 45 per cent. The church had just been completed when he came here, and $7,000 was due on it. All this has been paid, and the church has money in the treasury. Through his instrumentality the Presbyterians built and own the West Street Chapel, a mission work that has accomplished much good.

The Enterprise says:

Rev. Mr. Rose is one of the best pulpit orators in Enoree Presbytery, if not in the Synod, his sermons being models of logical thought, elegant diction and purest gospel teaching. It is the universal hope of his congregation that he may find a congenial and pleasant field of labor, and that he may be abundantly blessed with a rich harvest of souls.

"Jewels from Faust."

The gratifying success of the Exposition concerts at Raleigh proves that North Carolina is advancing in not only the development of the material but the cultivation of the æsthetic, and that her musical talent is equal to great demands upon it. We see that Miss Nellie Waddell was one of the singers. We will be pardoned the familiarity of calling her "Fayetteville's Favorite"—as one would name a lovely flower for its exquisite fragrance or the beauty of petal and leaf—and down here we are very proud of her triumph. The Raleigh correspondent of the Richmond (Va.) Dispatch says:

The vocal honors of the entire festival were won by Miss Nellie Waddell of Smithfield, who sang deliciously the "Jewel Song" from Faust, and was twice recalled.

Mr. Remsburg, the delightful clarionet-player of the Fayetteville Independent Light Infantry Band, also took part in the concert.

Obituary.

The death, on Tuesday of last week, of L. C. Straughn, Esq., removes from the community an old citizen who, identified with the progress and growth of the town through long years, was suddenly stricken down in the midst of a career of active industry—to pass the evening of his life afflicted of God.

Mr. Straughn was a communicant of the Baptist Church, had served as magistrate for some years, and was a member of the orders of Odd Fellows and Knights of Pythis, in both of which he took a deep and abiding interest.

The McDougald Trial.

The trial of McDougald for the murder of his uncle, Simeon Conoley, has been removed from Robeson county to Cumberland, and will take place at the November term of Superior Court.

North State Improvement Company.

A meeting of the North State Improvement Company was held here yesterday, at which the present directors and officers were reelected.

Presbytery.

Fayetteville Presbytery meets at Dunn to-day, and several of the ministers were here yesterday—a goodly body of Christian men.

Religious Notes.

Rev. Mr. Wingate, pastor of the Baptist Church in Greensboro, filled the pulpit of Rev. W. B. Oliver, pastor of the 1st Baptist Church in this city, last Sunday morning and evening—and filled it most acceptably. We should place him in the class of preachers of which a shining example is Rev. H. A. Brown, of Winston, once the greatly-loved pastor of the congregation here:—too devoted to the service of the Master to make the pulpit the platform for oratory, but always earnest, tender, impressive, true.

Dr. Wilson was heard from last week. We doubt not that it was matter of deep regret to the whole congregation of the Presbyterian Church of this city—certainly to all who had the good fortune to hear his admirable sermons during his recent visit to Fayetteville—when it was learned that he would be constrained to decline a call to the pastorate of this church. On returning to his home he found himself in a "hopeless minority" with his flock, but one of the fold voting for the severance of his relations with them. This is a high tribute to the power and usefulness of Dr. Wilson as a preacher and pastor—but—well, we wish that they had loved him less that we might have had a chance of loving him more.

Rev. Jno. M. Rose, for some years pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Greenville, S. C., and now about to enter upon the important Evangelistic work of this State, conducted divine services in the Presbyterian Church last Sunday, greatly pleasing and edifying a large congregation by his forceful discourse. Mr. Rose is always interesting, impressive and polished in the pulpit, and this was one of his most finished and scholarly sermons.

The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered in the Hay Street Methodist Church last Sunday morning, and the discourse of Rev. Dr. Moore was regarded by thoughtful hearers as one of the most masterly of the many able sermons with which he has edified his congregation and the community. Religious services are being held in this church during the current week, with a good attendance and gratifying manifestation of interest. Rev. S. V. Hoyle, of Maxton, has been assisting Dr. Moore—an earnest, forcible preacher.

Rev. W. J. Fulford will preach in the 1st Baptist Church next Sunday morning and night.

People and Their Movements.

This department has a "black eye" this week. Our reportorial force has all been so constantly busy at the desk that we have had no one to play "Jenkins" outside.

Mr. T. A. Barker, Manager of the Hotel LaFayette, and his accomplished daughter, Miss Belle, have returned from Campo Bello, where they are wont to spend the summer, and where Mr. Barker is manager during the season.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Williams, of Wilmington, have been visiting Fayetteville, and the latter will spend a short time longer with friends here and at Manchester.

Mr. M. D. Bethune, of Montrose, made us a pleasant call this week.

We were glad to see Mr. J. T. Tolar in our office this week.

Mr. H. C. Cooper, the live and energetic manager of the Granite City Land and Improvement Company, is in the city and will spend a few days in Fayetteville, presenting the advantages offered by his Company and the attractions of Mt. Airy.

This Way, Please.

If you don't believe it is to your interest and that it will pay you to look over our new advertisemst this week:

"Look me in the face! My name is 'Might-have-been!'
I am also called 'No-more,' 'Too-late,' 'Farewell!'"

The poet who wrote the above must have been in the last stages of consumption. Perhaps he had only learned, for the first time, that if he had taken Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in his earlier illness, he would never have reached his present hopeless condition! What can be more sad than a keen realization of what "might have been?"

Physicians now admit that consumption is simply scrofula in the blood attacking the lung-tissues. It is never safe to allow the blood to remain impure, and it is especially reckless, when such a pleasant, harmless remedy as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will drive every taint of scrofula or impurity from the system, causing a current of healthy, rejuvenating blood to leap through the veins.

"Here are a few of the pleasantest words that ever blotted paper."—Shakespeare.

Experience--Comparison--Opinion.

I have carried $20,000 life insurance in the Northwestern Life Insurance Company of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, since 1874, and have received the largest dividends from them over all other insurance I carry, and cheerfully recommend them to all persons desiring life insurance.—W. W. Moore, Manager New Grand Opera House, Des Moines, Iowa.

I take pleasure in recommending the Northwestern; have carried two policies in the company for several years, and recently took out the third. Have insurance in other old-line companies, but find the dividends in the Northwestern exceed those of any other company. —N. Burrows Bubb, Sec'y and Treas. Otto Chemical Company, Williamsport, Pa.

I carry life insurance to the amount of $125,000. I have a policy of $30,000 in the Northwestern, and the yearly dividends have been much larger than those of any other company in which I am insured. I regard the Northwestern as a first-class company in every respect.—S. D. Coykendall, President Cornell Steamboat Company, Rondout, N. Y.

Mr. Coykendall is also insured in the Equitable, New York Life and Connecticut Mutual.

Replying to your favor of this date, I will state that about five years ago I took out a $15,000 policy in your Company; also one in another prominent Company for the same amount and same kind of policy. My dividends in your Company have exceeded the other two hundred and fifty per cent.—Frank E. Block, Proprietor Steam Cracker Factory, Atlanta, Ga.

While other policies in different companies held by me have failed to yield such returns as were stated to be probable, the dividends on my policy in the Northwestern have been larger than you stated they would be at the time I insured, and I know of no higher praise that can be given any company.—J. Newton Fiero, of Bernard & Fiero, Attorneys, Kingston, N. Y.

I am the possessor of five policies in the Northwestern, and my only regret is that they do not represent more insurance. Have compared dividends and "additions to paid up policy" with friends insured in other companies, and am satisfied the Northwestern takes the lead and will continue to lead the van.—F. L. Van Tassel, Secretary Excelsior Mill Company, Yankton, South Dakota.

I take pleasure in saying that so far as my experience goes with the seven companies with whom I have placed my life insurance, the Northwestern has, by its larger dividends, furnished my life insurance at less cost than any of the other companies, and thereby earned the right to stand at the head, as I estimate them.—George A. Russell, President and Treasurer National Papeterie Company, Springfield, Mass.

I am more and more satisfied each year that it is the strongest company in the country and, of all my policies, I value those in the Northwestern most highly When my dividends are double those of the other companies, it is, perhaps, not to be wondered at. I am confident that whoever is seeking the safest and most profitable life insurance will, on carefully looking over the field, certainly invest in the Northwestern Mutual Life.—Wm. H. B. Pratt, 94 Sixth Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Some years ago I bought several small insurance policies, leaving it with the companies to give me such a policy as in their judgment was the best they had to offer. After considering these policies I determined that the one furnished by your company was the best of the lot, and in consequence thereof gave them what additional insurance I have taken out since that time. I feel so thoroughly satisfied with the policies written by your company that before taking any insurance with any other company I shall go to the limit in yours.—C. F. Milburn, President Milburn Wagon Company, Toledo, O.

I carry $100,000 of Life Insurance, and have given the matter of the relative merits of the different companies thoughtful consideration. It is perhaps a sufficient indication of my opinion in regard to it that one-half of all my life insurance is written in the Northwestern, $50,000 being the limit the company writes on any individual. I consider it the strongest, most profitable and most conservative company in the United States. My dividends are larger than those received from any other company, figuring the dividends on the same basis.—James L. Houghteling, of Peabody, Houghteling & Co., Real Estate, Chicago, Ill.

Notice of Election.

In pursuance of an order made by the Board of County Commissioners of Cumberland county, in meeting assembled on the 19th day of September, 1891, notice is hereby given that an election will be held in Cross Creek and Seventy-First townships, in the county of Cumberland, on Tuesday, the 27th day of October, 1891, in pursuance of provision of Chapter 239, Laws 1889, and Chapter 502, Laws 1891, for the purpose of submitting to the qualified voters of said Cross Creek and Seventy-First townships the question of creating a bonded indebtedness, upon the township of Cross Creek in the sum of twenty thousand dollars, and upon the township of Seventy-First the sum of ten thousand dollars, as a subscription, by each township, of said sums to the capital stock of the Fayetteville & Albemarle Railroad Company, said bonds to run for a period of ten years from the 1st of January next after the date of their issue, to bear six per cent. interest, and redeemable after one year from the date of their issue.

Those in favor of said indebtedness will vote "for subscription." Those opposed to said indebtedness will vote "against subscription."

Said election to be held under the rules and regulations of the general election laws of the State, at the usual voting places in the said Cross Creek and Seventy-First townships,

A new registration is ordered in each of the above-named townships, and those desiring to vote for or against said indebtedness will register as by law required.

OFFICE OF YORK ENTERPRISE,
YORKVILLE, S. C., Aug. 14, '91.

ATLANTIC ELECTROPOISE—Gentlemen: For the past five years my wife has been a sufferer from dyspepsia. So completely did the disease make a wreck of her former self that life was almost despaired of. Her nervous system was almost entirely destroyed and the slightest noise would throw her into a nervous spasm, which would last for hours. Medical skill failed to bring any relief.

Through the recommendation of an eminent divine we were induced to try the Electropoise. After a persistent use of the instrument, the effect has been wonderful. Her nervous system has been restored to its almost normal condition; her digestion is wonderfully improved; she is rapidly gaining in flesh; and, upon the whole, is making a rapid recovery, which speaks volumes for the wonderful curative powers of the Electropoise, as her case was considered hopeless. If any are skeptical on the subject, let them try the Electropoise, and its wonderful powers will quickly dispel all doubt.

Yours truly, W. M. PROPST.

Good-Night Song.

Good-night!
Weary one, take sleep's delight;
Now the day so gently closes,
And each busy hand reposes
Till gay morning greets the sight,
Good-night!

Go to rest;
Let the tired eyelids fall!
In the street where silence lieth
Loud the hour the watchman crieth,
And the soft night-voices call,
"Go to rest!"

Sleep sweetly!
Dream, sad heart, of Paradise!
Love thy holy calm hath shaken,
May bright dreams thy joy awaken,
Of thy loved one in the skies!
Sleep sweetly!

Good-night!
Sleep till breaks the coming day,
Sleep until the new-born morning
Brings new duties with its dawning,
God will watch. Put fear away.
Good-night.

Departure from Life.

My wound burns hot; my pained and parched lips quiver;
I feel it in my bosom's fainter beating;
I feel e'en now life's last brief moments fleeting:
God, as Thou wilt; to Thee I yield me ever.
Round me there hovered many a golden vision:
Now their sweet tones in death's low dirges perish—
Courage! What this fond heart all true doth cherish,
It must live with me in yon realms Elysian.
That which inspired my spirit's holiest vow,
Which woke my youthful bosom's rapturous flame,
By Liberty or Love its sacred name,
Like a bright seraph stands before me now,
And, as the death-shade life's horizon fills,
Bears me aloft where morn bathes Heaven's empurpled hills.

Fall Plowing in the Garden.

Among the advocates of fall plowing in the garden is an Iowa correspondent, who writes on the subject as follows in Our Country Home:

Plowing the garden in the fall is advantageous in many respects. Planting in the spring may be done earlier. The soil will increase in fertility. Manure may be used more freely, as it will have time to decay and become incorporated with the soil. There is more leisure to do this work in the fall. The garden should be plowed deep and subsoiled to the depth of twenty inches or two feet, if that work has never been done before. The reasons for this mode of preparation are:

1. The soil will be made deeper by admitting the action of the air—the greatest fertilizer. 2. An excess of moisture will be carried down into the earth away from the roots of plants. 3. The capillary attraction of moisture and plant-food to the surface from great depths in the earth will be conserved. By deep breaking up of the soil it is made capable of absorbing rains and melting snows, which, when stored deep in the earth, are brought, by capillary action, to the surface to sustain the growth of crops.

If the soil, by deep plowing each season and subsoil plowing occasionally, is made capable of retaining the moisture of rains and snows, there is an inexhaustible supply of both moisture and plant-food which may be relied upon to sustain the growing crop, and no vain wishing and waiting for rains will be necessary.

Before plowing the garden it may be manured heavily with well-rotted stable-manure. That, plowed under, will assist greatly to warm up the soil for early planting in the spring. After plowing a heavy coat of manure may be applied to the surface, which will impart fertility to the soil during the winter through the operation of snows and rains, and in the spring the refuse and trash remaining may be raked off and used on the fields. A garden of vegetables is of great importance and only secondarily—a garden of fruits being "first of all"—and the earlier these vegetables can be had in the spring the better.

Cribbing Corn.

St. Louis Republic.]

Corn should always be well drilled out before cribbing, or it will heat and damage in cribs. It will be found a good plan to clean out the old cribs, and where the previous crop has been damaged more or less by vermin it will be a very good plan to fumigate or whitewash thoroughly.

The time when corn can be cribbed depends largely upon the season. Some years it can shucked out and cribbed much earlier than others. Generally a short time after there is killing frost corn will do to crib, especially fodder corn. It is nearly always best to shuck out and throw directly into wagons, as throwing upon the ground causes waste.

With fodder after the corn is taken off, the better plan is to haul it up convenient to the place where it to be fed out, and stack it up in a long rick. The fodder will keep in much better condition than if left in shocks in the field, and, while it is a cheap feed if rightly managed, it is too valuable to go to waste. So far as the work will permit, the sooner the corn is cribbed and the fodder rickod up the less the waste.

Take Care of Garden Refuse.

Weeds and garden refuse are liable to accumulate rapidly at this season, as during the past wet weather hoeing has been carried out under difficulties. The larger weeds are best removed by the hand, and burned, following after, as quickly as the ground will permit, with the hoe. Allowing the larger weeds to remain on the ground to wither up is false economy, as after being cut off, in many cases, a crop will ripen off to spring up again. All refuse vegetables should be removed as soon as the crop is gathered, for if allowed to remain they only harbor slugs. In the practice of some farmers all such material is burned in a smother with other garden refuse, the ashes remaining proving far more beneficial to the ground and crops that follow than allowing such material to remain to be dug into the ground thereafter as a manure, and along with it probably the eggs of slugs in abundance.

Garget.

Garget is an inflammation of the udder, sometimes involving only one-quarter of the bag, but oftener one-half. The affected portion becomes swollen, hard and feverish, and the milk, when drawn from that portion, is thick and sometimes bloody. This condition may be brought on by a blow on the outside, and in the case of a cow that for any cause has gone without being milked for a day or two. It may also be induced otherwise; oftener the cause will be unknown; but, whatever it may be, an excellent remedy is bathing the bag several times a day with water as hot as can be borne by the hand, along with the the use of laxative food. The milk from the affected part should then be drawn as soon and as completely as the case will admit. Timely attention will usually prevent such cases from becoming serious.

is recommended by physicians because they see its healthy effects all around them.

A leading physician in New York, and director of one of the large hospitals, says, February 8, 1890, he has made use of the P. P. P. sent him, and was pleased to say P. P. P. proved efficacious in a number of cases, and adds, it is no more than he should have anticipated from the satisfactory combination of such well-known drugs.

A prominent railway superintendent of Savannah (name given on application) says he was crippled by a disease in legs and arms, powerless to walk or eat without assistance, having lost the use of his limbs by rheumatism, malaria, dyspepsia, etc. Physic and here sent him to New York and they returned him here, and he was as complete a wreck as one could be and live. A course of P. P. P. has made him a well man.

P. P. P. is known among physicians in the South for its various and wonderful cures as the great blood purifier of the age.

Blood Poison

Primary, Secondary and Tertiary Syphilis, old sores, pimples, blotches, scrofula, bad oil and mercurial poison and skin diseases are eradicated by the use of P. P. P. Hosts of certificates are in office to show the cures in these diseases where all other medicines have failed.

Rheumatism

Inflammatory, gout, sciatic and its kindred diseases with their excruciating pains are cured by the wonderful blood-cleansing properties of P. P. P (Prickly Ash, Poke Root and Potassium).

Catarrh

Originates in scrofulous taint. P. P. P. purifies the blood, and this prevents catarrh.

For Old Sores, Skin Eruptions, Pimples, Ulcers and Syphilis, use only P. P. P., and get well and enjoy the blessing only to be derived from the use of P. P. P (Prickly Ash, Poke Root and Potassium). For sale by H. R. HORNE and A. J. COOK & CO
